THREADING THE NEEDLE.

A Quaint Game Long Played in Old London Town.

There is an old game called "Threading the Tailor's Needle," and this is the way it is played: Two players represent the needle; the others, or any number from six to a dozen or more, represent the thread. Having joined hands and lifted these in the air, the two stand firm, and the rest following each other in single file, each grasping some part of the clothes of the one before him, wind their way in and out while the rhymes are repeated. When the last word is arrived at the two representing the needle suddenly drop their hands and make a captive of the one who is passing under at that instant. He or she then takes place as a part of the needle, and the other goes to the rear of the procession; the game is resumed again in the same way. The following are the lines repeated:

Oranges and lemons, Say the bells of St. Clement's; You owe me five farthings. Say the bells of St. Martin's: When will you pay me? Say the belis of Old Bailey: When I get rich, Say the bells of Shoreditch: When will that be? Say the bells of Stepney I'm sure I don't know, Says the great Bell of Bow - New York Morning Journal.
